

A ball of radius r , resting on the ground, spins about an axis parallel to the ground with angular speed ω_0 and no translational velocity. If the coefficient of static friction is μ , find the distance the ball travels before it stops slipping.